

CROWDS JEER AT MARCHERS ON N.W. SIDE

Civil Rights Group Meets Hostility

A crowd which grew to around 800 persons harassed civil rights demonstrators yesterday as well as police guarding the demonstrators during an open housing march on the northwest side.

Twenty-one persons, including a woman and three juveniles, were arrested before the demonstrators moved out safely under police protection. Two of those arrested were injured and treated in a hospital. Policeman Albert Krajecke, 40, was treated in St. Anne's hospital after he was hit on the back and arm by rocks.

Stage 2 Demonstrations

Two small demonstrations were staged, one outside the office of the McCarthy Brothers Realty company at 2835 N. Laramie av., and the other outside the Heinemann Realty and Mortgage company at 5447 Fullerton av.

Small groups of white persons gathered across the streets from the demonstrators. There were a few jeers, but that was all. The demonstrators left and went to the Hanson Park stadium parking lot at Belden and Central avenues to join a larger group, which had departed later from the Warren Avenue Congregational church, 3101 Warren av.

Leave Parking Lot

A total of 300 marchers, Negro and white, left the parking lot, marched north in Central avenue to Fullerton avenue and east to the office of Parker & Finney, Inc., real estate firm at 5043 Fullerton av.

They were led by the Rev. Jesse Jackson and the Rev.

Frank Ditto, who said he is chairman of the Oakland Committee for Community Improvement, marched on the sidewalk to the front of Mayor Daley's home at 3536 Lowe av., then adjourned to the street to play catch with a softball. All except two obeyed police orders to get out of the street.

They are Maurice Sanders, 22, of 4081 Oakland Crescent, and James Futransky, 20, of 5311 Harper av., a Columbia university student. Both are scheduled to appear Aug. 15 in Boys court on charges of disorderly conduct and obstructing traffic.

Bernard Lee, both aids to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. of the Southern Christian Leadership conference. Another of King's aids, the Rev. James Bevel, also was there.

Near the front of the march were two nuns carrying signs which said, "Open housing; God's law and Chicago's law," and "All men have the right before God to a decent place to live . . . Archbishop Cody." Several priests walked behind the nuns.

The demonstrators marched back and forth in the block for 20 minutes, sang, and then knelt in prayer. A rock fell among them but hit no one. The crowd across the street grew to about 700.

Police Disperse Attackers

At Long avenue, about 200 white youths blocked the marchers' path. Police rushed to the front and dispersed the white youths. A crowd of about 150 teen-agers and young men gathered in the parking lot where police were guarding the marchers' cars. They began to pelt police with rocks and bottles. Police chased them away.

Three rocks were thrown against a CTA bus with a Negro driver. Near North avenue, several blocks away, someone threw a brick into the window of an unmarked squad car driven by a police intelligence unit sergeant who was accompanied by a reporter for the Chicago Defender.
